We noticed that the estimable wife of H. W. J. had been to purchase hats in Brandenburg. What has become of the milliner at Big Spring? We thought that that place was such a haven of refuge for residents would be loth to go anywhere else to trade.

What is the matter with the Meade Messenger? She is falling back into her old way of a day late. It seems her correspondents have lost interest in their letters. Some of them do not appear for a course of several weeks. Where is Meade County Boy? We would enjoy another of his witty letters.

It was no small crowd that listened to the music rendered by Messrs. Hickerson and Richardson on last Saturday night. "Prof. Elsie" with his witty songs and splendid voice, before he is aware of the fact, will captivate the hearts of some of his fair listeners. As to Mr. Lee, it is as natural for him to bring forth sweet strains from his violin as it is for him to smile when he sees his best girl.

That Mrs. Wm. Hill, of Garrett, purchased three lovely hats of our milliner, Miss Mollie Board, last week.

Mr. Mat Jarboe, of Glendene, visited his mother here the fourth Sunday and attended services at Pleasant Hill.

The inmates of the parsonage are grateful to Mrs. Henderson Mills for half a gallon of fine strawberries, the best we have seen this season.

The long looked for Mr. Jim Bishop has put in his appearance. He represents one of the best shoe houses, Rosenberg, Flexner & Mendel.

One of our gentlemen of leisure did a day's work last week and has not yet recovered from the unusual exertion. His friends are uneasy about him.

Our ad a short time back resulted in much good. The bachelor has been recognized by his new suit, received one buggy drive and is progressing quite nicely.

Mr. Horace Hunter, who is in Leitchfield assisting in the building of Mr. John Frane's house, was at home the fourth Sunday but was not well enough to attend services.

Mr. Owen and wife will visit at Mr. John Moore's, then spend a short time with Mrs. George Moore and family, before returning to their home in Davies county.

The next time one of our young gentlemen wants to go to Leitchfield and tell his "best girl" that he has been sick is the reason he has not been over he must "post" us so that we will not give him away.

It is said that "a severe case requires severe treatment," and one of our physicians surely meant to "kill or cure" this week. We saw him start off with saddle pockets thrown across one shoulder and a gun over the other.

Mr. Josh Harris, of this county, who has been over in Grayson quite low with typhoid fever, died the first day of this month, at 11 o'clock, a. m. Mr. Harris has a number of friends here who will be pained to hear of his death.

Just after mailing our last letter to the News we left home to visit the capital of Grayson county. We enjoyed our visit to Miss Lourena Willis very much; took in the town, noticed the improvements, attended the protracted services at the Christian church, visited all the dry goods and millinery stores, found all with an elegant stock of goods and doing an extra-good business, and returned home with the intention of writing up the town but now our head is too small to contain only one idea at a time and we can think of nothing but the fearful roads. When we are inclined to say naughty things about a person we put our tongue between our teeth and sit on the opposite side of the room from our pencil until the storm passes over. But then the roads are public property and one might write about them from now until fall and "the half would not be told." The road between Hardinsburg and Leitchfield is not only a disgrace to the two counties but to the Court. Such narrow, rough, poorly worked roads we never saw. You may think us exaggerating when we say that there are very few places that buggies can pass and at times it is a "tight squeeze" on horseback. Imagine a gentleman having to back his buggy up in one fence corner, take his horses out and put them in another, until a loaded wagon passes. If you think the picture is overdrawn just take a few trips over the road and you will decide that "Truth is stranger than fiction."

Piles can be cured, piles will be cured, piles are cured with DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. An excellent remedy for all skin diseases. A. R. Fisher, Cloverport, and Witt & Meador, Hardinsburg, Ky.

"Gumalastic" Is With Us.

Col. R. W. Munser, of Cythiana, a Republican as old as the party and a former Republican editor, is out in a card, which says in part: "The party I leave has run down in men and management. It is no longer the old party in whose career I had a part from Lincoln to Harrison. A new crowd, with new objects now control. Those of us who forced freedom for a class, tire of them controlling county meetings and representing us on committees and delegations." Being a careful, influential and intelligent man, Col. Munser's action will drop another shovelful of dirt on the coffin of Kentucky's g. o. p.—Hartford Herald.

Remembering The Dead Soldiers.

The Thomas M. Wheatly Post, No. 150, Grand Army of the Republic, on the 30th of May dedicated the soldiers' graves at the Jones and Mt. Vernon graveyards. The ceremonies were very interesting, and we people of the Mt. Vernon neighborhood are very thankful to the Post for the honor and respect that they so generously showed our brothers and friends of the city of the dead.

The lodge met at Patesville and forming line marched a distance of four miles. They went to the grave yard on the old Johnson farm and beautifully decorated three graves there, and then they marched to the church, where they partook of an old-fashion soldier's dinner. After dinner a crowd of about 1,000 gathered in and around the church where they listened to a most eloquent address, delivered by Colonel Cowden, of Dayton, O. The Patesville Cornet Band furnished music for the occasion in a most commendable manner. A choir of little girls, also from Patesville, rendered some nice singing. J. T. J.

Farmers At The Fair.

Hon. Will Miller, of Hardinsburg, has been appointed a member of the World's Fair Advisory Council on Farm Culture and Cereal Industry. There is a room set apart in the Live Stock Pavilion for the special convenience of agriculturists, and Mr. Miller is requested to give every farmer, who may attend the fair from this county, a letter of introduction. It is Mr. Miller's desire to do so and every farmer who goes to Chicago should not fail to get this letter. One of the greatest benefits to be derived at the World's Fair will be the mutual acquaintance of farmers of all classes, from the North, South, East and West, and the opportunity is thus offered them to personally inform each other as to their modes of farming and the results obtained. The official in charge of this department will introduce one to another.
